

The Washington Post

A PUBLICATION OF The Washington Post | WWW.WASHINGTONPOST.COM/EXPRESS | OCTOBER 27, 2001

express

Gifts

Just Do It

Your spouse is craving a round of barnstorming aerobics aboard an old-fashioned open-cockpit biplane. Like you have time to track that down before the holidays. Get ready for the ride of your life, because at the just-launched EXCITATIONS.COM, biplane aerobics are a mere $450 away — as are secret agent-style driving lessons ($760), a housecall from an animal expert with a car-full of reptiles ($250) and comparatively tame stuff such as facials and private Pilates lessons. All of the site's experiential gifts take place in the D.C. area or within driving distance.

HOLLY J. MORRIS (EXPRESS)