

BREW YOUR OWN BEER

Throw back a cold one. Whet your whistle with an introductory lesson in brewing your own beer. Using professional equipment and fresh ingredients, work with a seasoned brewmaster to develop your own custom flavor. Choose from a selection of lager and ale styles, using one of the brewery's recipe as is, or modifying it to suit your tastes. Design your own label and name it what you like. When your beer is ready, return to the brewery to bottle your beer.

- Begin by sampling beers and talking to an expert about the kind of beer you want to brew
- Take your place at the kettle and brew up to six different blends
- Create custom labels featuring your own photos or artwork, and names
- Keg your beer and leave it to ferment for 3-12 weeks
- Return to bottle and label your signature beer with the proper equipment
- Take home about five cases of beer to share with family and friends and a t-shirt to remember your experience
